

Microwave Warfare

Barrie Trower

Interviewer: I understand that you have a wealth of experience with microwaves. Can you begin explaining how you began your career in microwave technology?

Barrie Trower: Yes, of course. In 1960 I was in the Royal Navy and I worked partly with the underwater bomb disposal unit, partly with microwave warfare and some of the other time with radar.

Microwaves were involved in all three different areas. So whilst I was in the Royal Navy I trained in all aspects of microwave technology. And as anybody will tell you who has been in the forces, the training you receive is second to none. You practice it, you talk about it all day, you sleep it, and so, since 1960 I have been involved in all aspects of microwave technology.

After that, a part of my job, because I have had microwave expertise, was to question captured spies during the cold war when Russia and America were within seconds of global nuclear war and microwaves by then were really sophisticated stealth weapons. And part of my job was to find out from any spies who had been captured what the current knowledge was in that part of the world.

Interviewer: This technology is truly frightening, really frightening.

Barrie Trower: This is why microwave weapons were introduced from the 1950's, 1960's and 1970's to the present day. And this is another level of proof. They are so effective if you're not in a hurry to get rid of somebody. They are so effective as a stealth weapon to beam somebody. And this has been done many times and it is recorded. You can beam people you don't like, as a government, to give them cancer, breast cancer, neurological illnesses, you can choose what you want them to get.

Interviewer: You can choose?

Barrie Trower: You can choose. You can choose which pulse frequency you want to affect the brain with. You can choose the level of microwave irradiation and the speed that you want them to become ill. It really is a perfect stealth weapon. And all you need to do is rent a house opposite someone you want to get rid of, or a group of people you want to get rid of, and just beam them. The most famous case during the cold war was the Moscow embassy siege where in Moscow they beamed the entire American embassy and gave them cancer.

Interviewer: Did they cause cancers in all of the staff, or a lot of the staff?

Barrie Trower: Most of the staff. Most of the children got leukemia. The women developed breast cancer, the gentlemen developed cancers. I think after about 18 months the entire staff was changed and then a following 18 months the staff was changed again. By that time people realized what was going on and they found that they were being irradiated by microwaves. And rather than saying isn't this disgusting and what have we sunk to, instead they thought isn't this wonderful and let's develop this for ourselves. And governments today are still perfecting microwave warfare.

Interviewer: Still to this day they're working on the weaponry?

Barrie Trower: Still to this day, in 2010, they are still perfecting the pulse frequencies. It has got very, very sophisticated with the pulse frequencies, how long they can transmit, whether it can be from one country to another, bouncing the microwaves off the ionosphere, so you don't even have to be in the same country.

Interviewer: Bouncing the microwaves off the ionosphere. A lot of people won't have heard about this technology. You're talking about HAARP?

Barrie Trower: If you have a super transmitter using the microwaves and if you beam them, well, it's only simple basic trigonometry. Let's say that I want to bring economic ruin to a country that grows all of the world's wheat. All I have to do is beam microwaves up to the ionosphere, which is like an invisible cloud around the planet, an ion cloud around the planet, the microwaves going up to the cloud at a set angle will reflect down onto the country and if I continuously beam the wheat in this field, or the cattle, or the sheep, I can harm them or I can reduce the immune system of the plants so that they won't be healthy and they will die, and I can stunt their growth, and I can bring economic ruin to that country. I can harm all of the animals, all the cows, all the sheep. It's so easy to do. You only have to push a button and you can bring economic ruin to a country.

Interviewer: Which countries have this technology already available? Is it all the countries in the world or just a few countries?

Barrie Trower: It may not be a wise thing to say on a live broadcast but you can take my word for it that I know of at least two super transmitters in the world that have this capability. And there are probably more in areas that I do not have access to and I cannot go to, but I know there are at least two.

Interviewer: I need to just go back a little bit. Back to your early days in the military, this technology was used by the British government against terrorism?

Barrie Trower: We have 8,300 papers, and I have knowledge of 2,300 myself, and what the governments found is that you could induce, by changing the pulse frequency, like Morse code, of the microwaves going into the brain and you can interfere with brain. By specializing on the pulse frequency you could induce psychiatric illnesses to the point where a psychiatrist could not tell if it is a genuine psychiatric illness or an induced psychiatric illness. So what you can do theoretically is you can target an individual's brain so that they may have auditory hallucinations, where they hear things, which is actually quite common with microwaves, or they can show signs of schizophrenia. For instance, 6.6 pulses a second can induce severe sexual aggression in men. So you could induce somebody to commit a really horrific sexual rape. Technically, what you could do is have somebody committed to a psychiatric hospital or a jail for a crime just by somebody saying that they had a psychiatric problem whereby they didn't. You can target other parts of people's bodies. You can target the heart and cause heart seizures. You can target the lungs and cause bleeding. And, if you're clever enough, you can target some of the essential glands in the body that control all the hormone systems. So if you have dissidents or people that you don't like, as a government, it is very, very easy to irradiate them and either have them wind up in jail or in a psychiatric hospital and, of course, there is no reflection on you.

Interviewer: These weapons that the governments have and are still using, are they more powerful than the WIFI that I have in my front room or my cordless phone or mobile phone?

Barrie Trower: No actually, the power is slightly less. The difference is where you might use WIFI for a couple of hours after work and then leave and the WIFI frequency power is going in all directions rather than directed. Here they are targeting you probably with a beam and it is on you all day, every day, and it can follow you wherever you go and it can target you while you sleep as well so you are really getting a concentrated dose. It's a little like having someone follow you with a searchlight and beaming the searchlight on you all the time. There is a difference between that. The power can be less, it just takes longer. One specific paper from the government lists all of the illnesses that you can get from microwave sickness including severe neurological disorders. We have a government document that actually says that this information needs to be kept secret from the western governments because it will affect the efficiency of the military, the weapons industry, and will also affect industrial profits. This is the United States Intelligence Agency advising the western governments to keep this secret so they can protect industrial profit and military functions.

Interviewer: Kind of startling really, isn't it?

Barrie Trower: It is so horrific, that if it wasn't real, if somebody wrote a book on this, I would say this is so stupid you could never make up a story like this. It all goes back to the 1950's , 1960's and 1970's when microwaves were found to be such a perfect weapon and so dangerous to the military that the United States Defense Agency told the western governments to keep this quiet. And they did. And this is why we have this. We have documents that show that governments paid people to experiment on people without ever telling them. All of this goes back to 1976. Everything was known by 1976. Everything. We needed no more proof, no more research.

The Nuremberg treaty was signed by all of the nations of the world and it is a very specific treaty. And what it says is that no human being will be experimented upon without his or her consent. And before they give consent they have the legal right to understand all of the implications, the health problems, the future health problems and they must have the legal capacity to say no.

And where this is relevant here is that there is only one exception within the Nuremberg Treaty and that is a doctor may experiment on his or herself only. That is in Section 5. That is the only exception.